

Sparkasse

Saarlouis, Germany

The Project

After more than two years under reconstruction, the Kreissparkasse head office in the heart of Saarlouis was opened in mid-2025. The architects used natural materials and modern building materials for the organic design of the interior, creating an atmosphere that combines professionalism with relaxed openness.

A visual highlight is the versatile, white LIVA open-cell ceiling. This is embedded harmoniously within the multiple curves of this architectural structure. The discreet and seamless way this ceiling integrates lighting, ventilation, sprinklers and other technical installations is very impressive. In the spacious and modern counter hall, the different heights of the LIVA panels create a flowing, wave-like appearance that complements the soothing lines of this design.

Architects

BHK Architekten

Completion

2025

Products

LIVA multidirectional open-cell ceiling

Material: White strip-painted aluminium; various louvre heights between 50 mm and 300 mm; louvre width: 98 mm; centre distance: 120 mm